Lampson School Daycare set to close doors for good

Kara Tibbel
Staff Writer

Declining enrolment and financial losses have forced the Esquimalt Military Family Resource Centre (MFRC) to shut down its daycare service at Lampson School.

After Aug. 15, the MFRC will no longer offer daycare at this location.

“It was a difficult decision and we are very sad to see the daycare close,” says Linda Scott, MFRC Program Manager. “But we are looking forward to having a good last summer with the kids.”

Daycare is not a mandated service for the MFRC. In 2009, CFB Esquimalt leased Lampson School from the school board to fill a need for daycare services. However, since 2013, there has been a decline in enrolment of children aged three to five years old, and an increase in growing deficits from running the operation.

“As a non-profit organization, our board of directors had to make the decision that this service is no longer financially viable for us,” says Gaynor Jackson, MFRC Executive Director. “We understand that change is difficult and we are committed to assisting families throughout this process.”

Due to annual transitions, the MFRC will be able to accommodate all families currently in Lampson’s Infant Toddler program at their Colwood location. Some spaces will be available in their three to five-year-olds daycare in Colwood as well. Those not accommodated have been provided information on other daycares in the Esquimalt area that have vacancies for September.

The closure will also impact casual child care and children’s deployment workshops at Lampson School; however, these services will continue at CPAC in Colwood.

Parents may contact the MFRC directly for questions or concerns or visit www.esquimaltmfrc.com for more information.

As part of the centennial of the Royal 22nd Regiment (R22eR), a delegation from the unit attended Pope Francis’s general audience at the Vatican in Rome on May 14.

The soldiers asked the Holy Father to bless the regimental flags and their regiment.

Their stay in Italy also included a visit to Casa Berardi, the site of the Dec. 14, 1943 battle, during which Captain Paul Triquet displayed the daring leadership that won him the Victoria Cross.

“In 1944, during the occupation of Italy, a delegation from the Royal 22e Regiment obtained an audience with Pope Pius XII here in Rome,” said Major-General (Ret’d) Alain Forand, after meeting the Pope. “It is an honour for me and for soldiers from the regiment to come back here 70 years later to mark our unit’s 100th anniversary and remember the sacrifices our brothers-in-arms made in support of a war effort that has marked human history.”
First Nation’s schoolchildren, parents receive crash course in Navy history

Jamie Cook
MARPAC PA Office

Over 50 children, teachers and parents from the Shihiya School of the Splatsin First Nation, located near Enderby, B.C., received a first-hand lesson about Canada’s naval history during a visit to CFB Esquimalt’s Naval and Military Museum on June 3.

The 28 students, aged four to 13, and 34 adults were led on a tour by Maj Paul O’Reilly (Ret’d), a former naval helicopter pilot with over 34 years of service in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Maj O’Reilly shared his wealth of knowledge with the group, expertly recounting historical facts and figures as he led them through the various exhibits. The museum, constructed in the late 19th century, itself a piece of history, chronicles the development of the naval presence on Canada’s West Coast.

Beginning with the Royal Canadian Navy’s humble beginnings and British ancestry, the group progressed through the RCN’s engagement in two World Wars, the conflict in Korea and beyond.

“If you don’t learn from history, you’ll repeat it,” said Maj O’Reilly.

The group learned about the internal transformation of Canada’s navy with displays highlighting the establishment of the Women’s Royal Canadian Naval Service (WRCNS) and the Canadian Women’s Army Corps (CWAC).

These visits from landlocked communities are an opportunity for children and adults to learn about the RCN, the service it provides to Canada, and its operations, both past and present.

“It’s about exposing them to opportunities they’re not aware of,” said Reidun Kopp, Head Teacher. “Getting them outside of their community and showing them what they can do in the future is so important.”

With Canada’s National Aboriginal Day approaching on June 21, the visit emphasized the importance of the CAF’s relationship with Aboriginal communities and leaders, building bridges, and showing what the CAF has to offer.

Spring: Time to celebrate the perfect tourtière

A/St Melissa Kia
Base Public Affairs

Now that it’s lovely out and we are becoming more active, we can get away with a little indulgence (safe in the knowledge that our next bike ride should burn off those extra calories). Or at least, that’s what I like to tell myself when I’m craving my arrière grand-maman’s delicious tourtière.

In a mixing bowl, sift the flour, salt and baking powder together to incorporate them and remove any lumps. Then cut in the butter with a fork until the mix looks like coarse sand. This technique is called “sabler”. You can also do this with your kitchen mixer using the paddle attachment.

In a separate bowl, whisk together the water, egg yolk and white vinegar. Then pour the liquid into the dry “sabler” and knead the dough just until it becomes smooth. Smack the dough out into two equal disks and wrap them in plastic wrap to cool the refrigerator. This type of dough can stay in the fridge for up to a week, so you can make your own pastry, feel free to cheat and buy a frozen shell in the next grocery order. This recipe makes enough dough for a top and a bottom crust.

The Pastry

- 2 cups flour
- ¾ tsp Salt
- 1 tsp Baking powder
- 1/3 cup cold water
- 1 cup Mashed potatoes

While your pastry cools, you can make the filling for your tourtière. Start by dicing the bacon and frying it in the bottom of a large pot. When it is golden, but not crisp, add the pork, veal (or hamburger), and diced onion and meat until it browns. When the meat is golden, add the water and spices; mixing thoroughly. Cover the pot with a lid and allow the filling to cook on low for 45 minutes. In another pot your mashed potatoes, (it takes about 4 or 5 small ones to get the right amount). Then smash them up and let them cool. When your meat mixture is fully cooked, remove it from the heat and mix in the potatoes. Then set the whole mix aside to cool while you roll out your pastry. Roll out the dough until you have enough to cover both the bottom, and the top, of a 8-9 inch pie pan. Place in the bottom layer of pastry then add the cooled meat filling, and cover the pie with the top layer of dough. Pinch the corners of the pastry shut and cut some decorative holes in the top to let the steam escape. Brush the top of your pastry with an egg yolk then place the whole tourtière in a 375 F oven for about an hour, or until it is golden, blond and delicious!

Serve your finished masterpiece with a side of your favorite salad to trick yourself into thinking that it’s low fat, or if you are like my grandpapa just add ketchup and forget the greens! Get your bikes ready; you’ll need them after this wonderful slice of Quebecois bliss.

People Talk

In keeping with June is Recreation Month, Lookout asked: What was your favourite childhood game you played to keep active, and would you still play it now?

Capture the flag was my favourite game and most definitely I would still play it now, it would be awesome.

I wasn’t a very active child, in fact I was pretty sheltered. I played with My Little Ponys as a kid and would not still play with them now.

I played a ton of hockey growing up and oh yeah of course, I still play today.

I played a lot of tennis as a kid and now today I am a tennis pro on the side.

Fighting with my brother kept us pretty active and I definitely still do that to this day!

Capturing the flag was a game everyone loved as a child, keeping the ball on your side was a real challenge. I still enjoy football games.

My Little Ponies were a great way to keep busy as a child and I still enjoy watching movies about them.

I didn’t play much tennis growing up but I like tennis and play once in a while.

I used to love playing baseball as a child.

I loved the challenge of playing with my brother.

Coast Guard vessel named in honour of fallen soldier

A new Canadian Coast Guard vessel, named in honour of fallen soldier Capt Nichola Goddard, was launched from the Halifax Shipyard May 17 - the eighth anniversary of Cat Goddard's death.

Goddard, the first Canadian female soldier to die while in a combat role, was killed during a firefight in Afghanistan, May 17, 2006.

The vessel is the ninth and final Hero-class patrol vessel, also known as a mid-shore patrol vessel. Each of the nine vessels in the patrol vessel program was named after fallen personnel from the RCMP, Canadian Coast Guard, Department of Fisheries and Oceans and Canadian Forces who performed heroic acts during their service.

CCGS Captain Goddard M.S.M will now undergo further construction and finish work in preparation for sea trials in late summer. The final vessel is expected to be delivered to Canadian Coast Guard early this fall.

Lost Second World War Airmen of Avro Anson Aircraft found in British Columbia

The remains of four airmen from the crash of a Second World War training aircraft in British Columbia have been recovered during a collaborative operation with the British Columbia Coroners Service.

The four airmen, one from the Royal Canadian Air Force – Sergeant William Baird – and three from the Royal Air Force – Pilot Officer Charles George Fox, Pilot Officer Anthony William Lawrence, and Sergeant Robert Ernest Luckock – were conducting a navigation training exercise aboard the Avro Anson L7056 aircraft in October 1942 when they failed to return from the mission.

DND and the CAF are working with the Commonwealth War Graves Commission and the Joint Casualty and Compassionate Centre in the U.K. to plan for an internment ceremony, in consultation with the airmen’s relatives, to provide the airmen with a final honoured and appropriate resting place in a Commonwealth War Graves plot.

New Expedition Bar to the Special Service Medal (SSM). It will provide formal recognition for the valued contributions of those women and men who offer critical support while deployed overseas, and who participate in the success of a number of missions.

The SSM was especially designed to recognize “service determined to be under exceptional circumstances, in a clearly defined locality for a specified duration,” without a specific requirement for risk or hardship. The new bar also follows the logic of the recently created Expedition ribbons to the GCS, GSM and OSM.

The Expedition Bar will be awarded for an aggregate of 180 days of honorable service performed outside Canada, while deployed to participate in or to provide direct support on a full-time basis to approved operations beginning July 1, 2007, provided the service is not counted towards any other Canadian or foreign service medal.

Reservist brothers earn special award

Kara Tibbel
Staff Writer

Two brothers, both military reservists and Victoria police officers, have exceeded expectations in keeping the roads safe by successfully enforcing the province’s impaired driving laws.

That diligence has earned PO1 Graeme LeBlanc and Major Brendon LeBlanc an Alexa’s Team Award from ICBC, the Justice Institute of British Columbia and the Alexa Middelaer family. They were one of 135 officers who formed the 2013 Alexa’s Team in Surrey, Greater Victoria, Kelowna and Prince George.

“It’s not about receiving an award, it’s about recognizing hardworking officers who have gone above and beyond in contributing to the safety of Victoria,” said PO1 LeBlanc, who works part-time at HMCS Malahat.

The award, named after a four-year-old who died at the hands of a drunk driver in 2008, honours British Columbia police officers who have arrested 12 or more impaired drivers over a year.

In 2010, the Middelaer family challenged the RCMP, municipal police officers, and the Ministry of Justice and Attorney General of British Columbia to reduce the number of deaths caused by alcohol impaired driving by 35 per cent by the end of 2013, the year Alexa would have turned 10 years old.

In February, the Ministry of Justice announced there was a 52 per cent decrease in alcohol-related motor vehicle deaths, representing 190 lives saved. Alexa’s Team members were responsible for almost 50 per cent of the impaired driving enforcement in B.C. in 2013.

PO1 LeBlanc was acting sergeant in the Integrated Road Safety Unit with the Victoria Police Department and was part of 80 Victoria police officers who formed Alexa’s Team.

“That is really what it’s all about. It is a team effort. Just do the math; if a total of 80 officers all took a minimum of 12 impaired drivers off the road, think of how much of a difference we made in the safety of people of British Columbia,” said PO1 LeBlanc. “Alexa’s Team keeps a spotlight on the problem and raises awareness on just how fatal impaired driving can be.”

Being a part of the military community is not uncommon for police officers, says PO1 LeBlanc.

“It is great to see so many police officers contribute their spare time to being a military reservist. I believe it better their skills sets and traits when it comes to policing,” he says.

Reservist PO1 LeBlanc shows his Victoria Police Department badge while sporting his military uniform.

Alexa’s Story

On May 17, 2008, at approximately 5 p.m. a vehicle left a residential road in Delta, struck two pedestrians, a parked vehicle and finally came to rest on a power pole. One of the pedestrians, four-year-old Alexa Renée Middelaer died of her injuries. The driver, a 56-year-old woman was later convicted of impaired driving causing bodily harm and death.

Historical data (2008-2012) shows that in an average year:

- Approximately 95 people will die in motor vehicle crashes involving impaired driving.
- Impairment is in the top three contributing factors for fatal car crashes.
- Approximately 29 per cent of motor vehicle fatalities are related to impaired driving.
- Most impaired-related crashes (60 per cent) occur on a Friday, Saturday or Sunday.
- Almost half (45 per cent) of impaired-related crashes take place between 9 p.m. and 3 a.m.
- 16 to 25 years old accounts for the highest number of impaired drivers in crashes (32 per cent).
- Male account for 72 per cent of all impaired drivers.

When military personnel are injured in the line of duty it doesn’t just change their lives, but the lives of their families as well. In these times of need Honour House is there to help.

Founded in 2013, Honour House is a facility in New Westminster that provides lodgings for families of military members and emergency personnel receiving medical care in the area.

Based in a fully restored 10-bedroom heritage house on a quiet tree-lined street, Honour House lends a helping hand to military families when they need it most.

“When a family member is receiving treatment it’s hard on the entire family,” says Al De Genova, President of the Honour House Society. “Especially with all of the hard work and sacrifice the military gives to the people of Canada it’s only right for us to give back any way we can.”

The idea for Honour House came to De Genova, real estate agent and former Park Board Commissioner for Vancouver, one night while watching a documentary on Capt Trevor Greene.

Capt Greene suffered an ax wound to the skull that nearly killed him while serving in Afghanistan, putting him on a long road to recovery with his wife Debbie. De Genova and his wife began talking about how the families of service members are impacted in situations such as this.

“We started talking about how there aren’t really any facilities available for the families of service members who are receiving treatment and medical care,” says De Genova, also one of the founding members of Ronald McDonald House that provides similar lodging for the families of children receiving care at B.C. Children’s Hospital.

“We came up with the idea of a place that would act as a sort of Ronald McDonald House, but for the families of military members receiving care. It was my wife who came up with the name Honour House. It fit perfectly.”

Soon after the idea took root De Genova met with RAdm Bill Truelove, Commander Maritime Force Pacific, and Gen (Ret’d) Rick Hillier, former Chief of Defence Staff, to gauge military interest.

After explaining the idea to them, Hillier took De Genova aside and shook his hand. Left in his palm was Hillier’s challenge coin.

“He told me to make Honour House happen, and that he would do whatever he could to help me,” says De Genova.

“I accepted the challenge. I carried that coin with me every day. It reminded me there was someone high up in my corner, and it helped me move forward.”

From there the search went forward and Honour House had a spot they had was absolutely perfect. From then on Honour House had a home.

With the success of the first Honour House increasingly evident, the idea for an Honour House in every province is on the horizon.

“Honour House is the first of its kind, but we don’t plan of keeping it that way,” says De Genova. “There’s a lot of good work being done for military families in need, and there are families across the country. Hopefully as time goes forward we’ll be able to reach out to everyone who needs us.”

The house is a fully renovated heritage home with 10 private bedrooms each with its own en-suite bathroom. It has a large shared kitchen, living room, media room, sun rooms and other common spaces. It is also wheelchair accessible.

Honour House receives no direct funding and raises all of its operating costs through donations and fundraising.

The house has one full time and one part time member of staff. Almost all of the work needed to keep Honour House running is carried out by a board of directors and a team of volunteers.

To learn more about Honour House go to www.honourhouse.ca
To mark the 70th anniversary of D-Day, the Royal Canadian Mint has produced a tribute to Canada’s veterans of the Second World War and their enduring legacy of service and sacrifice in Normandy and beyond.

The silver collector coin was unveiled June 3 by Erin O’Toole, Member of Parliament (Durham), and Carman Joynt from the Royal Canadian Mint’s Board of Directors at a special send-off for Canadian Second World War veterans set to attend D-Day memorial events in Normandy, France.

“Our June 6, Canadians from coast to coast will pause to remember the 70th anniversary of the Allied landing in Normandy, which was an important offensive that allowed Allied forces to establish a foothold in Western Europe and open up another battlefront, thus paving the way to Allied victory,” said the Julian Fantino, Minister of Veterans Affairs at the unveiling.

The angled horizon in the background recreates the rough sea conditions, as the transport vehicle and its occupants are tossed about by tall waves just off the shores of Normandy. The obverse of the coin features the effigy of the reigning monarch during the Second World War, King George VI.

The 2014 $10 fine silver coin 70th anniversary of D-Day has a limited mintage of 8,000 and retails for $49.95. It can be ordered today by contacting the Mint at 1-800-267-1871 in Canada, 1-800-268-6468 in the U.S., or online at www.mint.ca. The coin is also available at the Royal Canadian Mint’s boutiques in Ottawa, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as through the Mint’s global network of dealers and distributors, including participating Canada Post outlets.
For the second year in a row, LCdr Aaron Stanford, a United States Navy exchange officer with Maritime Forces Pacific Headquarters (MARPAC HQ), placed first overall in his division at the Victoria Highland Games Heavy Events on May 18.

LCdr Stanford secured another victory after competing in eight different events including the heavy and light hammer throw, and the iconic caber toss, in which athletes hoist and toss a log roughly the size of a telephone pole end over end.

Competing for the first time in 2013, a mere three weeks after his introduction into Scottish Throwing, he placed first overall in the Novice Division in the Victoria Highland Games International Heavy Events Challenge that year.

When he was notified about being posted to Victoria he began searching for ways to become engaged in the local community.

“I came across the Victoria Highland Games Association website and through them the Vancouver Island Scottish Throwers Association (VISTA),” he says, adding that he started training while in Bahrain. “It’s a really welcoming, open and friendly group of guys who like to throw heavy things. There’s a real camaraderie here; it’s part of the culture of Victoria.”

LCdr Stanford is posted to MARPAC HQ as the Fleet Scheduling Officer. Prior to this posting he had been with the United States Naval Support Activity in Bahrain.

This year his wife and five children came out as spectators. The family enjoys the sport and his successes so much that his wife Katie has become hooked; she is planning to take part in the Women’s Heavy Events Division.

Wearing the Official Tartan of the United States Navy, LCdr Stanford will continue to compete in the throwing events, all of which include a show of extraordinary strength.

It was an unforgettable day.”

19 Wing PAO

The Roseland (Y2-K) Spitfire, which has been under meticulous restoration in the “Heritage Hangar” at 19 Wing Comox for over a decade, is one step closer to taking to the skies.

After the completion of the uniquely shaped wings of the Second World War-era fighter, the plane will now be moved by road to Vintage Wings of Canada’s restoration facility in Gatineau, Quebec. Upon its arrival, technicians will complete final assembly and test flights, readying it for full operation as an ambassador of the Comox Valley and 442 Squadron to Canadians across the country.

"Vintage Wings is uniquely equipped in Canada to conduct final assembly of this complex and historic aircraft,” said Col (ret’d) Terry Chester, Vintage Wings of Canada spokesman and President of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association. “The facility in Gatineau is purpose-built for restoring such aircraft and we have many resident technicians and a test pilot who are able to complete this project in a safe and effective manner.”

The move of the Spitfire will enable the final phases of reconstruction to take place, thereby enabling the aircraft to take to the skies again after almost 70 years.

The reconstruction of the Spitfire has been a popular exhibit at the Comox Air Force Museum since 2000, when the museum used a Heritage Grant to begin the project.

Many volunteers worked on the project: working on the aircraft, running publicity events and raising money. After eight years of reconstruction at the Comox Air Force Museum, the project was assumed by Vintage Wings of Canada in 2008.

The Wing Commander of 19 Wing recently signed an update to the original contract with Vintage Wings of Canada allowing the Spitfire to be moved to Gatineau. This is due to the complexity of the final reconstruction, as well as space constraints faced with working in the Heritage Hangar in Comox.

The move to the large, specialized and well-equipped hangar in Gatineau will enable Vintage Wings’ technicians to attach the complex wings to the fuselage of the Spitfire. The wings were recently constructed and require special handling and care.

The move to Gatineau will also allow technicians to use the dedicated facilities to perform a number of complex tasks, such as painting the aircraft in its distinctive 442 Squadron colours, featuring the “Y2-K” call letters.

After final assembly, the Spitfire will be prepared for airworthiness certification and test flights will be conducted in Gatineau by a Transport Canada-certified test pilot.
